STORIES FROM THE FIELD

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Do you remember learning quadratic equations? It is one of the many mathematical problems the students are learning. They are progressing well in their studies; the girls also spend time with their teachers in the evenings for more problem solving on the chalk-board at the campus. Continued...

The drama on the campus continues

Speaking, writing and reading in English study can still be a challenge for some of the girls. The teachers at Kuwala have become creative with their teaching styles to incorporate drama, acting and role play to help make the content more engaging.

One of the books they are studying in English class is Macbeth. The photos show teacher and students acting out their parts.

Community outreach at its finest. Students with village kids, Kuwala_2021.

This is what it's all about.

Wednesdays are community service in action at Kuwala. Sometimes, the girls have gone to the nearby villages to teach the younger children English and other studies.

They also went on a teaching visit to one of the Primary Schools in the area. These opportunities provide English practice for the students, connect them to the villages, and build awareness of the school. In addition, the teaching visits develop a much larger community relationship of support, trust and encouragement. Thus, not only does Kuwala provide hope and a bright future for our students, but also one for generations to come.

It is rare in Malawi to have laptop computers and printers for students to present their work on.

Computer studies is about being practical.

The girls continue learning the basics of the computer programs and have now begun to format a document and print their work. It shows actual progress, and the girls are excited about their finished projects.

Computer literacy will provide the step-up to pursue their education further or work towards a future in Agriculture or small business. The students and their parents meet their teachers at the end of this month to discuss their progress. The importance of having the parent's commitment and involvement in their education ensures that when the girls go home for breaks, there is a consistent message to keep them focused.

STAFF

Our cooks, nurse, security staff, and teachers are all sporting appropriate uniforms.

UNIFORMS

Uniforms help build student respect and trust in the teachers and staff and look to them as role models for their future. In addition to the PPE equipment for the Covid Pandemic, the new uniforms also provide a level of protection for each staff member's role.

Kuwala Staff have received PPE when teaching and interacting with the students on campus.

The Pandemic required that many of the skilled nurses in Malawi fulfill Government positions within the country to fight against Covid-19. Our newest member of the staff, Nurse Bridget Bester, brings her skills to the well-being of our students and staff at Kuwala.

Hello, I am a fellow Christian and a CCAP Member. In addition, I'm a Sports master and patron of the Maths Club. My extra duties include being a counsellor for the girls, as I work as a Chair of the Discipline Committee.

Reading newspapers, watching movies, and interacting with people of all ages is what I enjoy doing when not teaching.

Meet Noel Maganga, Teacher of Social Studies, Physics and Agriculture

In his words... I am the third born in a family of four boys. My brother supported my secondary education through his work as a maid. Growing up, I did my Primary and Secondary schools in the same district, then was selected to Domasi College of Education and later joined Mzuzu University in Malawi, where I graduated with a Bachelor's degree.

Kuwala is a school that looks and provides enough care for both the staff and learners. It's a school that puts Christianity in practice strives harder to educate the village girl, whose future was very vulnerable in the village. The students experience both academics and outside class activities, and there is a vast improvement in their performance and willingness to learn. I see a future for the girls as we train them to serve others and their communities. The girls have started to develop much ambition in community serving professionals so that they will become teachers.

Veronica

Veronica is currently a student at Kuwala in Form 3.

Getting to know the student.

Meet Veronica

Student at Kuwala

In her own words... Hello, I have three sisters and two brothers. I want to be independent as a girl and help my family and others through my job and achievements. I could see my dreams coming true. My parents and family members were pleased knowing that they have been freed from paying my school fees. I enjoy learning English, Math and Computer skills. The environment at Kuwala is good as it is quiet, which does make me study in peace. I see myself becoming a Judge and a Business Owner. I am going to help my family and improve their lives. I also enjoy chatting with others because, at first, before I came here, I did not know how to talk with people. I enjoy storytelling as it helps my vocabulary, thereby improving my English skills. I also enjoy cooking, playing frisbee and volleyball.

Sports Day at the campus

This is an activity where the students and staff can have amazing interactions and team building experiences. Popular team sports include: netball, soccer, and volleyball.

A bold call to action

All girls at Kuwala come from extreme poverty. These girls are most at risk of pregnancy and child marriage. Our Canadian charity provides tuition for each girl in Malawi to receive a quality education in a safe environment. Our progress is working.
